Issue 232 13th October 2023

Dear parents and carers

This week we have all been working really hard, focusing on our school vision, values and rules and linking things like respect and resilience to our lessons and activities around school.

We want our pupils to become responsible citizens that contribute purposefully to our community. Over the course of the year we hope that we can become involved in more community events. The first of which will be our attendance at the Remembrance Parade and service next month – we hope to see many of you there.

Have a great weekend

EYFS News

The children have enjoyed the challenges this week connected to the story 'Rosie's Walk' by Pat Hutchins. We tied it into the PE session, using the equipment for the first time to travel over, through, along, on and under just like Rose the hen in the story. The children continue to make fantastic progress with phonics and reading.

We are holding a Reading Breakfast on Friday 20th October- 8.40-9.30. This is a chance for you to come into the classroom with your child at the start of the day (1 adult per child please; we don't have room for more!) Enjoy a croissant or brioche and some juice and read your child's reading book with them or share another story from the selection at school. The children will be bringing a 'reading for pleasure' book home with them to enjoy over the half term. More information about this to follow at the breakfast. Please let us know if you are unable to attend and we will make sure that member of staff is available to share books and eat breakfast with your child.

Thank you to those who are ensuring that you read with your child at least 5 times a week. This has a huge impact on progress and future success.

The Reading Information meeting will take place on Weds 1st November at 6pm. Please put this date on your calendar! We look forward to sharing lots of helpful information about how to help your child with this vital step in their learning.

Have a great weekend. We will be reading 'The Little Red Hen' next week.
