

This landmark stands over 315 feet (96m) high. It is named after the 13.5 tonne bell housed within its tower.

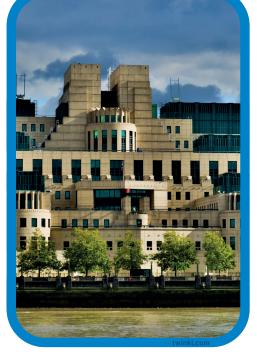

London Eye

This landmark is 443 feet (135m) tall. Over 3.75 million visitors come each year to wonder at the views.

National Gallery Home to over 2,300 different works of art, this attraction welcomes more than 6 million visitors each year!

MI6 Headquarters

"MI6 Headquarters" by Garry Knight Follow is licensed under CC BY 2.0.

This building is home to the UK's intelligence and security services! Take a boat down the Thames and you'll easily spy it!

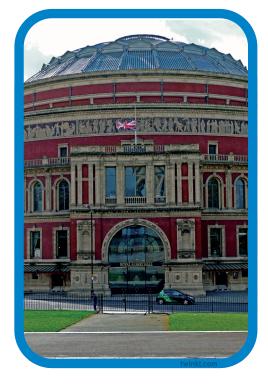

Houses of Parliament

With 900 years of history, this is where the House of Commons and the House of Lords meet.

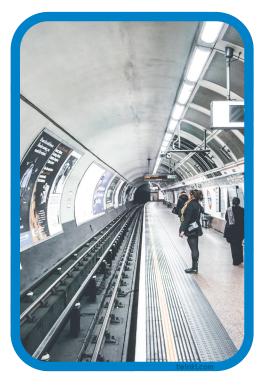

Natural History Museum Whether you prefer dinosaurs or dragonflies, moths or woolly mammoths, you can learn all about them in the exhibition halls of this building.

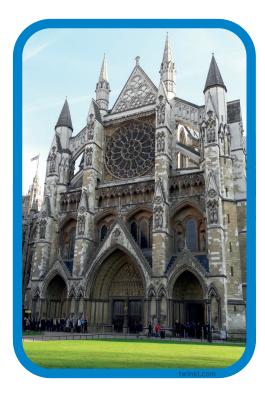

Completed in 1871, this concert venue hosts the annual BBC Proms, and can seat 5,400 people. It's organ has 9,999 pipes!

London Underground

This landmark can take you to 270 different stations. Its trains can travel up to 60mph!

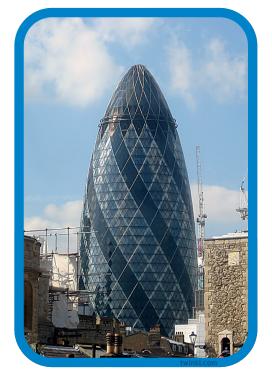

Westminster Abbey

Built in 1245, this landmark has over 1000 years of history and 17 monarchs buried within.

Tower Bridge

First opened in 1894, this London landmark is opened at least once a day now. But, if you need it to open, you must give 24 hours' notice- make sure the cars and buses have stopped first!

The Gherkin

30 St Mary Axe has been nicknamed 'The Gherkin' due to its' unique shape. It is covered in 24,000 m2 of glass!

St Paul's Cathedral

"Admiral Horatio Nelson, Nelson's Column, Trafalgar Square, London" by Beata May licensed under CC BY 2.0.

Nelson's Column Found in Trafalgar Square, this monument is 51.6m tall and was built in honour of Admiral Horatio Nelson, who died at the Battle of Trafalgar.

This iconic, world-famous

dome is a main feature of London's' skyline. It is the home of the Bishop of London.

Buckingham Palace

The Royal Families' official London home, this building has 775 rooms, including 240 bedrooms, 78 bathrooms, a cinema and a swimming pool.

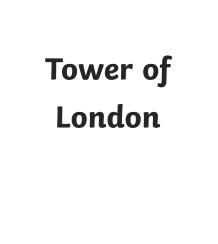

"Tower of London viewed from the River Thames" by Bob Collowânis licensed under CC BY 2.0.

The oldest part of this landmark was built in 1078 by William the Conqueror. As well as being a royal house, this building has also been a prison. It is now home to Yeoman Warders, ravens and the Crown Jewels.

"British Museum at sunset' by Paul Hudson licensed under CC BY 2.0.

British Museum This landmark first opened its doors to visitors in 1759. It is home to many historical artefacts from around the world, including the Rosetta Stone and the Elgin Marbles.

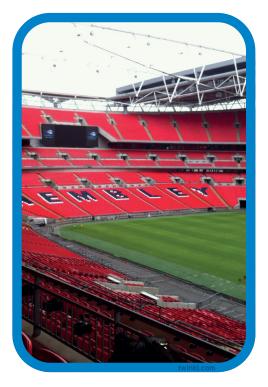

Albert Memorial

Opened in 1872, this landmark was commissioned by Queen Victoria in memory of her husband. It is 54m tall and the statue at the centre is made of bronze covered with gold leaf.

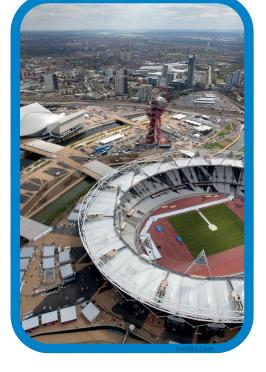

St Pancras Station

This landmark was opened in 1868, and was almost demolished in the 1960s but a campaign supported by poet John Betjeman saved it. Modernisation in the early 2000s opened up many of the old storage areas. This space is now a place where visitors can shop, eat or wait comfortably for their train.

Wembley Stadium

This building was opened in 2007, on the site of a former venue of the same name. It can seat up to 90,000 people under an arch 440 feet (133m) high!

Olympic Park

A relatively new landmark, this venue has had more than 16 million visitors since it opened in Summer 2012. It includes a tennis centre, a swimming and diving centre and a multi-use sports venue, all of which can be spotted from the 114m tall Orbit sculpture.

The Shard

At 309.6m tall, this is the tallest building in London and one of the tallest in Europe. Amazingly, it is 95 storeys tall!